Social Studies

We wrapped up our study of farms and had fun learning several different versions of "The Three Little Pigs". We learned a rap, a song, and read 4 different stories! We talked about their similarities and differences. For new centers, we got out a story telling center and created our own play featuring the 3 Little Pigs. Thursday, we made a riddle book. Did your favorite "K" Kid share it with you? We also put our knowledge of story elements to the test with retelling the story and identifying the characters, the setting, the events, and the problem.

Happy Mother's Day

Thanks moms for all you do! We love you and wish you a wonderful Mother's Day...may your breakfast in bed be delicious. ☺

Book Return

All library books are due back ASAP so that Mrs. Agar can begin taking inventory. We are also missing some of our classroom books. (The ones that come home in the plastic bags.) Please check to make sure that one hasn't been misplaced on your bookshelves at home.☺

Next Week

The Very Hungry Caterpillar

Math

We played a variety of different addition/subtraction games this week. Ask your favorite "K" Kid about Domino Math, The Cave Game, and Equation Dice. Friday, we graphed our favorite version of "The Three Little Pigs". The "K" Kids like the musical version, "The Three Pig Blues" the best.

Field Day

Field Day will be held all afternoon on Wednesday, May 14th. Most of the events are outside. If you want to send sunscreen for your child, we will make sure that we put it on before we begin. We will have our normal schedule the remainder of the week. Kindergartners don't really understand the concept of summer vacation so they keep working hard, even the last week. I'm such a slave driver! ☺
